Sessions

English First Peoples, Grades 10-12	TWO DAYS	August 21-22, 2017	$30
-------------------------------------	----------	--------------------	------

Founded upon the First Peoples Principles of Learning, English First Peoples courses for Grades 10-12 offer students of all backgrounds the opportunity to explore First Peoples' worldviews through literature.

The courses were developed through the collaboration of First Nations educators with the BC Ministry of Education and it is notable that English First Peoples 12 is fully equivalent to English 12 for BC graduation and post-secondary entrance requirements.

The courses are currently supported by English First Peoples Teacher Resource Guides for Grades 10/11 and Grade 12. Originally published in 2008, the guides are now being merged, revised and updated to align with the new BC curriculum and to provide units that incorporate recently-published First Peoples literature.

At this two-day workshop, teachers will receive the draft English First Peoples Teacher Resource Guide and be invited to provide feedback on the resource to inform its development. First Peoples literature resources will also be on display.

Residential Schools and Reconciliation Teacher Resource Guide (Elem/Sec)	August 23, 2017	$30

This session is designed to help support elementary and secondary school educators teach about residential schools in well-informed, respectful and appropriate ways. Participants will explore the FNESC/FNSA Residential Schools and Reconciliation Teacher Resource Guide for Grade 5, which introduces students to residential schools and the principles of reconciliation and engage students with age-appropriate children's literature, and video resources.

Participants will also explore the FNESC/FNSA Residential Schools and Reconciliation Teacher Resource Guides for grades 10 and 11/12, which introduce the historical context of residential schools and the principles of reconciliation using archival documents and additional resources. Participants will take home a full set of the resources.

Science First Peoples Grades 5-9 First Peoples

August 24, 2017

See how First Peoples' perspectives in science can be recognized and included in science inquiry, and take home examples of fully-developed units that correspond with the Big Ideas and Learning Standards in the BC Provincial Science Curriculum for grades 5- 9. All participants will receive a copy of the Science First Peoples Teacher Resource Guide.

Participants will be introduced to the Science First Peoples units: Traditional Ecological Knowledge, Plants and Connection to Place, Power from the Land, Bears and Body Systems, Climate Change, Shaking and Flooding, Interconnectedness of the Spheres, and Ocean Connections, and they will have the opportunity to browse supplementary First Peoples science resources.
